

KOREAN SAJU HOUSE

A PERSONAL READING FOR

Alex Morgan

Your Four Pillars of Destiny

Discover your nature, relationships and the seasons of your life.

FICTIONAL SAMPLE / 5-PAGE PREVIEW

An illustrative reading, not a real customer.

A moment, made visible.

Four pairs of symbols form the starting point of this reading. The Day Master is the central symbol: here, Yang Metal.

Alex Morgan

ALEX MORGAN / FICTIONAL PERSON

15 May 1990 | 2:30 PM | Solar calendar
Seoul, South Korea | Female

YEAR	MONTH	DAY	HOURL
庚午	辛巳	庚辰	癸未
Geng Wu	Xin Si	Geng Chen	Gui Wei
Metal / Fire	Metal / Fire	Metal / Earth	Water / Earth

Local clock time: 14:30 (UTC+9). The calculation system applies longitude and equation-of-time corrections, giving approximately 14:01 solar time. Both fall in the Wei hour.

Birth details were invented for this sample. Chart calculation and symbolic interpretation are separate steps.

Strong does not mean rigid.

Your Day Master is Geng: Yang Metal. Think of a well-made tool: strength becomes useful when it has a clear purpose.

01 Give your standards a purpose

Where do you naturally notice what could work better? This symbol invites you to turn a high standard into a clear, useful contribution.

02 Choose what deserves your energy

The Si month brings a Fire-season setting. In this traditional reading, pressure and refinement become themes to explore, not proof that hardship is inevitable.

03 Leave room to revise

Being dependable need not mean deciding everything immediately. Try naming one principle you want to keep and one method you are willing to change.

A question to keep: Where would a little flexibility make my strength more useful?

Clarity, with warmth.

The aim is not to assign you a job or a perfect partner. It is to make the chart a useful starting point for everyday choices.

01 At work: make quality visible

With Metal prominent among the visible symbols, consider tasks that reward careful judgment: improving a process, defining a standard or making a difficult choice clearer. Test this against your actual skills.

02 In love: explain the care behind the advice

A practical solution can be an act of care, yet another person may first want to feel heard. Before offering an answer, ask: "Would you like ideas, or would you like me to listen?"

03 One small experiment

This week, turn one unspoken expectation into a kind, specific request. Notice whether clarity creates more ease in the conversation.

Make the reading your own.

These prompts are inspired by the sample chart. Keep what resonates; your lived experience has the final word.

01 What am I protecting?

Name a standard that matters to you. Does it protect your values, or has it become a habit you no longer need?

02 Where can I soften?

Choose one situation where curiosity may be more useful than being certain. What could you ask before you decide?

03 What will I try next?

Write one small action you can take in the next seven days. Return to this page and record what actually happened.

For self-reflection and entertainment. This five-page sample is not the full 35-40 page product and does not promise fixed outcomes.